

Limelitters Offer Program Variety

The Limelitters, the group which is being featured at the next Pops Concert March 14, should offer a variety of entertainment, according to Al Exner, Pops Concert Chairman.

This group, which specializes in comics, jazz and vocal numbers, is not only a group of entertainers but of highly educated men.

Lou Gottlieb, the lofty comic spokesman of the Limelitters, is the only comic in the history of show business to become a Doctor of Philosophy.

Dr. Gottlieb was awarded his Ph.D. in musicology by the University of California for his dissertation on 15th Century cyclic masses.

Glenn Yarbrough, tenor with the Limelitters, was once a night bouncer in a New York hotel while he studied classical Greek by day.

Alex Hassilev, banjo player of the Limelitters, was a professional actor in many on and off Broadway productions, and is equally at home speaking French, Portugese, Spanish, Russian and English.

Exner had this to say, "Tickets are now on sale for the concert through various representatives in the dorms and off-campus students.

"Be sure you get yours early. I know from past experience that as the time draws near, the tickets will really start to move and we want everyone at Wartburg who wishes to attend to be sure to have a ticket. So, get yours soon."

Campus representatives from whom tickets may be purchased are Clinton Hall, Arlyn Ristau; Grossmann Hall, Dave Schalkhauser; Wartburg Hall, Beverly Reisner; Vollmer Hall, Pam Johnson; Centennial Hall, Celia Filter; and off-campus, Dick Buchsteiner.

Tickets may also be purchased from Elaine Krominga, tickets chairman.

As yet, no one has volunteered to sell tickets to Hebron Hall or North Hall. Anyone wishing to do so should leave his name in the Senate office, according to Elaine Krominga.

Student Project Goal Set For $5,000

A possible goal of $5,000 highlights the Student Body Project plans, according to senior George Whinna.

The Student Body Project, as it was passed in Tuesday's convocation by a vote of 364-37, will be the purchase of furniture for the new Student Union addition.

TAKING ON A NEW look, this year's drive will be the result of ideas from six committees. One approach already suggested is to use photography of the style of furniture desired. Another is the display of a model room; and, as the money is acquired, the furniture would be added.

Most important, the committee wants the students to feel more a part of this project than they have in the past. An attempt will be made to let the students themselves choose the style of furniture they want, according to Whinna.

Of the six committees, only three chairmen have been chosen. Dick Barton, heading the Ideas committee, is responsible for presenting ideas to help other committees solve their problems. The other two known chairmen are sophomore Arlene Abbs, publicity, and senior Doug Aden, finance.

Election Changes Discussed

The runner-up in the student body election in March will not be the vice president this year.

Student senators have been considering this possibility and several other student body officer election changes at the last two meetings and will be making definite changes at a special meeting Monday night.

STUDENTS WILL get a chance to vote on part of the changes at a constitutional election, which will probably be held within the next three weeks, according to Student Body President Dick Buchsteiner.

A special elections procedures committee, composed of seven senators, studied the present set-up of electing the student body president and came up with a series of recommendations, most of which were accepted by the Senate.

Major recommendations call for elimination of the preferential system of voting for student body officers, holding of primary elections for all offices if three or more candidates are nominated, establishment of a split ticket and election of the treasurer.

THE PRESENT system

makes the runner-up in the final presidential election the vice president. The secretary election is separate. Adoption of the split ticket would mean that a separate list of candidates would be set up for each office with all officers to be elected on the same day.

Primaries in the past have been held only when there were five or more candidates for president or secretary. By having a primary with three or more candidates, the final ballot will contain only the names of the two finalists for each office.

Consideration was also given to the fostering of a party system by listing a slate of officers for the four offices in one line, but this was dropped after much discussion because there was opposition to establishing a definite party system.

CANDIDATES COULD still associate with each other for a form of party system under the proposed change, but the exact set-up of the ballot will probably be left up to the regular Elections Committee.

Establishment of an electoral system of counting votes was also discussed at length, but the majority of senators favored the election of officers by a simple majority on a 10-4 vote.

The electoral system would have given 100 possible electoral votes to each class, the number of actual votes depending on the percentage of class members voting.

Students will not have to vote on the changes involving the election procedures since they are part of the bylaws. Passage requires a 2/3 vote of the senators present at any regular meeting.

WHAT THE STUDENT body will decide are the constitutional changes involving the treasurer and qualification changes for all four offices. The treasurer is now an appointive position and is a senior senator.

Election of the treasurer would mean that the Senate would be increased from 19 to 20 members.

The only qualification change recommended would make it possible for a junior college graduate or another transfer to run for a student body office. The resident requirement would be changed from the present three semesters to one semester, but an average grade point of 2.5 would still be based on the past semesters.

Final draft of the various changes will be presented to the Senate Monday night after the committee makes revisions. Acceptance of the proposals is expected since most arguments were presented at a 2 1/2 hour session last Monday.

Senators also discussed finances for the TALC conference to be held at Dana College, Blair, Neb., March 29-31. The student activities fund will provide $150 for the equalization fee, and various organizations will provide transportation funds.

Junior John Leonard was approved by the Senate as the off-campus representative to the Men's Coordinating Board.

69 Scholars Make List

Sixty-nine students were named to the first semester Dean's List, according to Dr. John Chellebold, dean of faculty. Six students earned a 4.0 grade point.

Other sophomores are Judith Lanaghan, Katherine Lewellan, Kurt Marshak, James Miller, Nancy Rahn, Pamela Sandroek, Kathryn Schroder, Horst Schroeder, Judith Slade, Keith Tomlinson, Barbara Uchterff, Darlene Wesenberg and Carolyn Wulff.

Qualification for the Dean's List is a 3.5 grade point average or above.

Of the 69 honor students 15 were seniors, 18 were juniors, 24 were sophomores and 12 were freshmen.

Pro Musica Group Coming Wednesday

By Dick Braun

The New York Pro Musica, to be featured at the next Artist Series Wednesday, is one of the most unique organizations of the musical world.

A non-profit, federal tax exempt educational organization founded in 1952, the Pro Musica works to revive the musical masterpieces composed prior to the close of the seventeenth century.

In 1953, after recording the Banchieri "Festino," they were encouraged and decided to give their first public recital.

They have since appeared annually in New York at Town Hall, Kaufmann Auditorium, the Metropolitan Museum and the Cloisters. Presentations have also been given at numerous universities, art centers and American cities.

Of the group one critic has written: "All members of the Pro Musica are individual artists, and at the same time dedicated ensemble players. Their mastery of their chosen idiom is nothing short of fabulous."

New York Pro Musica Group

Pro Musica is an eleven member group of six vocalists, four instrumentalists and its director, Noah Greenburg.

The vocal group includes a baritone, two sopranos, a counter tenor, a tenor and a bass. One of the members, baritone Gordon Myers, was born and reared on a farm near Finchford.

In 1960 the organization stirred Europe with its presentation of "The Play of Daniel," a medieval-liturgical drama of thirteenth century France.

On this tour they attained the distinction of being the first American company to appear in Westminster Abbey. The play, which took four years of study and research, has been given over 100 times.

From the start, Pro Musica has built an excellent library of special editions, books and microfilm dealing with medieval and renaissance music.

Research is carried on both here and abroad. Several years ago the Rockefeller Foundation contributed $46,000 toward the expansion of this study and research.

Pro Musica has also gathered a valuable collection of early instruments and reproductions of them for use in the ensemble.

Among the types of music studied are Italian Baroque music, medieval music from Spain, Germany and France, the music of the Renaissance and English songs and madrigals.

The group uses a number of rare instruments which include the harpsicord, portative organ, the cromarnes, the family of five recorders and the viola da gamba.

The Artist Series program will include presentations of Latin sacred music, Flemish dances, English madrigals and Elizabethan songs.

EDITORIAL—

A Coin Reversed

A small round coin — a coin that flips . . . On one side students have the freedom to ask questions about life, about campus affairs, about things that are of utmost concern to them personally.

But the coin also has a reverse side. That side might be termed responsibility. This is a right and privilege also endowed to the student. Not only has the student freedom to ask questions, but he also should take the initiative to seek out his own answers.

Asking and answering questions was the set fare for the open forum convocation last Thursday.

A panel of six — faculty, administration, students — were scheduled to explore five areas of Wartburg, with an explanation of that area presented by the panel and questions relating to that are to come from the student body.

With a 50-minute period divided into five areas, with time allotted to introductions and necessary explanations, it really left little time to actually get any good discussions going from the floor.

Time was a problem. Time is always a problem. Time will always be a problem.

Additional time for such public meetings is not available . . . but does this mean the questions should go unanswered?

It is time that the student learn to find some of his own answers. This may involve a little time, a little probing, a little questioning of the right people, but it can and ought to be done.

Finding the right channels is often the most difficult part of the task. In seeking reform or answers to simple, but important, questions it is necessary to ask the right people. Often this is not your roommate or even any other fellow student.

When you are equipped with adequate information on the point of a particular question, then you are ready to form your own conclusions. This may take the form of realizing one's mistake, or it may take the form of realizing the need for change in that particular area.

Complaints need a basis. The only way to find that basis is to seek some answers. Seeking answers is a student's responsibility. Seeking answers is YOUR responsibility.

Thursday's forum opened an avenue of thought in a variety of areas. One of these areas probably hit home; one of them probably has been bothering you for a long time.

Some questions were asked openly, some questions were thought silently. All these questions need answering.

Questions will still remain questions until you, the student, do something about them. To do that something you must reverse that coin and take the responsibility in finding your own answers.

Meetings Valued

Dear Editor,

I would like to express the opinion that I have found the topical and general discussions held in the home of faculty members, upon their invitation to students for this purpose, interesting and valuable.

I feel that it would definitely be a good thing if more such discussions could be held, for this is certainly one opportunity to strengthen the relationship between faculty and students.

Sincerely,
Lucille Zenker

Religious Climate Revisited

By Carl Jech

Two weeks ago I emphasized the need for a "slow down and live" approach to modern existence. I reiterated a plea for discrimination, for an emphasis on quality in our life.

This emphasis, I am convinced, is sorely needed today. We need to let it hit us with all of its force, appeal and truth.

And yet a one-sided emphasis is almost always a dangerous thing.

The person who is busy going nowhere, who is letting quantity rule out quality, is in no worse position than the person who is caught in a trap of plain laziness, indifference, inefficiency or non-involvement.

I am greatly concerned about those of us who are so overwhelmed with it all that we have become satisfied with a mediocre life of just getting by. (And even the A student can be just getting by.)

Too many of us "relax" too much and in the wrong way. If a certain 200 students would suddenly leave Wartburg College, I would be willing to predict that the entire extracurricular program would disappear.

Of course there are always differences among people;

some more or less lead and some more or less follow. But the problems are those of us who scarcely participate in anything at all, sticking to our own little circle.

An attitude of indifference, a personal policy of non-involvement, the conscious or subconscious adoption of the "just getting by" philosophy, the passive acceptance of life — these are the roots of the apathy we did so much brain-rattling about last year.

The problem is largely a personal matter. A community and its atmosphere is what its individual members make it.

Learning how to relax, how to "be still and know that I am God," is not the whole answer to the question of how we can live a life of quality.

We must also learn how to be rightly busy. The author's dedication in one of the psychology of religion texts used this year puts it beautifully: "To My Wife; a Mary with just enough Martha traits."

The greatest danger I see in an emphasis such as I made two weeks ago is that it may be used as an excuse (a rationalization) for laziness. Each person must judge himself on this score.

It is true that Jesus never seemed to be rushing around in a hurry. But it is just as true that he was not a lazy, inactive, passive acceptor of life.

The Christian student is being a good Christian largely to the degree that he is being a good student. And being a good student is always going to mean some hard work. The Christian is challenged to a life of active service and of being alive to life.

Let's have more spontaneity and individuality. Maybe our problem is that we have been made over-conscious of our weakness. When we work so terribly hard for something, it is often just because of this intense preoccupation that we cannot achieve what we want.

An article condemning or weeping crocodile tears about the religious climate may only serve to make the problems more intense. Many things have been "talked to death."

Religious climate?—The style of your life makes it! We cannot separate the "religious" from the rest of life. It has warmed up outside. What has happened inside? Last week was Spiritual Emphasis Week. What difference has it made?

Is it true that a man's religion determines the style of his life?

"Be still, and know that I am God . . ."

"The Power And The Glory" Reviewed

By Paul Wilken

Graham Greene, renowned British Catholic novelist, has combined two diverse elements into his novel "The Power and the Glory," which has been selected as the all-campus book for second semester.

These elements are the squalid Mexican state of Tabasco at the time of the Communist persecution of the Catholic Church in the 1930's and a nameless priest whose allegiance is divided among liquor, his bastard child, his parishioners and God.

WHETHER THE NOVEL is considered literally, as the story of a man pursued by the state and his own guilt, or allegorically, as the story of his sinful human soul trying to escape the grace of God, the novel is an effective and powerful portrayal of the encounter between God and man, even such an important man as Greene's protagonist.

Several themes may be ascribed to the novel. Francois Mauriac says that Greene shows the hidden presence of God in an atheistic world.

Also applicable is Pascal's conviction that man achieves greatness to the extent that he knows himself to be miserable and Peguy's thesis that the sinner is at the very heart of Christendom.

THE REV. ALFRED Klauser, who spoke on "New Forms and Images" at a December convocation, said Greene is saying that though the Christian Church may be absurd, God is not dead.

Whichever theme may be predominant, the reader discovers that Greene has skillfully created a character who fully understands humanity's desperate situation.

He is a whisky priest, bearing the guilt of his unconfessed sins and the weight of priestly duties; yet he is also a man who realizes that this world "needed a God to die for the half-hearted and the corrupt," and who considers hate to be a failure of the imagination.

HE IS A PERCEPTIVE individual who "would sit in the confessional and hear the dirty ingenuities God's image had thought out" and who saw the world full of people snatching at "causes of pleasure and pride in cramped and disagreeable surroundings."

It is through this nameless priest, who at the end "felt only an immense disappointment because he had to go to God empty-handed, with nothing done at all," and who knew that "at the end there was only one thing that counted — to be a saint," that Graham Greene shows us the power and the glory of God.

Columnist Hits Politics In Comical Comparisons

You really have to give some people a lot of credit. Like the executive secretary of Iowa Young Republicans. With the state convention coming up in mid-March (the 15th, in Des Moines) he wants all the delegates to do their homework before they arrive. The assignment? Be prepared to list at least 23 differences between the Dems and the GOP:

"How To Tell Your Enemy" (for use by either camp)

Democrats seldom make good polo players. They would rather listen to Bela Bartok. The people you see coming out of white wooden churches are Republicans.

Democrats buy most of the books that have been banned somewhere. Republicans form censorship committees and read them as a group.

Republicans are likely to have fewer but larger debts that cause them no concern. Democrats owe a lot of small bills. They don't worry either.

Republicans usually wear hats and almost always clean their paint brushes. Democrats give their worn-out clothes to those less fortunate. Republicans wear theirs.

Republicans post all the signs saying "No Trespassing" and "These deer are private property" and so on. Democrats bring picnic baskets and use the signs to start their bonfires. Republicans employ exterminators. Democrats step on the bugs.

Republicans have governesses for their children. Democrats have grandmothers. Democrats name their children after currently popular sports figures, politicians and entertainers. Republican children are named after their parents or grandparents, according to where the most money is.

Republicans tend to keep their shades drawn, although there is seldom any reason why they should. Democrats ought to, but don't.

Republicans fish from the stern of a chartered boat. Democrats sit on the dock and let the fish come to them. Republicans study the financial pages of the newspaper. Democrats put them in the bottom of the bird cage. On Saturday Republicans head for the hunting lodge or the yacht club. Democrats wash the car and get a haircut.

Republicans raise dahlia's, Dalmatians and eyebrows. Democrats raise Airedales, kids and taxes. Democrats eat the fish they catch. Republicans hang them on the wall.

Democrats watch TV crime and Western shows that make them clench their fists and become red in the face. Republicans get the same effects from the presidential press conferences. Republicans smoke cigars on weekdays.

Republicans have guest rooms. Democrats have spare rooms filled with old baby furniture. Republican boys date Democrat girls. They plan to marry Republican girls, but feel they're entitled to a little fun first.

Democrats make up plans and then do something else. Republicans follow the plans their grandfathers made. Republicans sleep in twin beds — some even in separate rooms. That is why there are more Democrats.

Grapplers To Face Luther

This afternoon Wartburg's matmen will square off against defending conference champion, Luther, at Decorah.

Again this season Luther boasts one of the strongest wrestling squads in the conference. A witness to this is Luther's second place finish in the Lutheran Invitational Wrestling meet held last week at Decorah.

In dual meets Luther has topped Simpson and Dubuque, both of which have defeated Wartburg.

The grapplers took it on the chin last night at the hands of Winona State, by a 20-5 score. The Wartburg points came at 157 lbs. where Bernie Masker tied with Leo Simon and at heavyweight where Duane Huth beat Rick Alfaro in a very close match, 6-5.

Despite Winona's large margin of victory they scored no pins. This gave the impression that the match was much closer than the score indicated.

Next Thursday the matmen will wrestle Upper Iowa at Fayette. On Saturday the Knights will host St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., in their last dual meet of the season.

Len Ackerman, last year's conference heavyweight champion who transferred to St. Olaf from Wartburg, will not represent St. Olaf as he is ineligible under Midwestern Conference rules.

Two weeks from today, March 1 and 2, Knights gymnasium will be the site of the conference wrestling meet.

At present two of the Knight's regulars, Jim Mueller and Rog Damrow, are on the sidelines with injuries. Both men are favoring strained cartilage in the ribs, but both should be ready to go for the conference meet.

Today marks the fourth straight meet Mueller has sat out and the sixth straight meet that Damrow has been on the sidelines.

At Decorah last weekend the Knights finished in a two way tie for sixth place. Here's how the teams finished: Augustana (Rock Island) 48, Luther 41, Augsburg 40, Gustavus Adolphus 37, St. Olaf 29, Concordia (Minn.) 28, Wartburg 28, Carthage 13 and Concordia of Nebraska 8.

Winner for Wartburg was Tim Tower who won the 147 championship round 7-6 by defeating Dave Johnson of Gustavus Adolphus. Tower won in the opening round 8-1 and pinned his opponent at 2:41 in the semifinal round.

Dale Wehling lost a 1-0 decision in his opening round. Mike Tower, 130, won in first round competition 11-0 but suffered a 5-4 setback in the semifinals. However, Tower came back to win the consolation final.

Bill Smith, wrestling at 137, won in the first round by pinning Paul Dawson of Augustana. Losing in the semifinal round Smith won the consolation final with a pin.

Bernie Masker, 157, won his first round, however, he was unable to advance farther. Cal Brown 167, Lincoln Johnson 177, and Duane Huth, heavyweight, were unable to advance past first round competition.

UIU Is Cage Foe

Wartburg Knights travel tonight to Fayette to face conference foe Upper Iowa in what should be one of the better games of the season.

Upper Iowa defeated the Knights in a previous game this season by the score of 66 to 64 at Knights Gym. UIU has a well balanced scoring attack. Four of their men hit in double figures in the last encounter with the Knights.

UIU, CURRENTLY tied for second place with Central College with an 8-3 record, was beaten last week by a surprising Buena Vista team, 77-67.

Three of the Knights scored in double figures but they still went down to defeat at the hands of the Dubuque Spartans by an 86-77 score last night.

Al Buenning and Harold Shudlick tied for Wartburg scoring honors with 17 points each. They were followed by Dick Ridout with 16.

High scorer of the game was Spartan Frank Urlich with 22 points. He was followed for Dubuque by Devon Arp with 17.

Other conference winners last night were:

Parsons which beat Penn and in the process had five men in double figures.

Central which topped Wesleyan, 57-52.

Buena Vista over Simpson by a 73-69 score. Beaver Larry Dick went over 1,000 points in his career scoring record.

Full Slate In IM Action

Intramural basketball went back into full swing this week with 12 games being played, four in the National League and eight in the American League.

Both Clinton I and Vollmer again defeated their opponents this week. Clinton I downed Clinton Basement 64-50 to capture the National League lead, and Vollmer defeated Grossmann IIA 59-50.

GROSSMANN I was handed its sixth straight defeat 46-42 at the hands of the combined Off Campus III and Grossmann III team.

Ketha completed National League play for the week with a 60-56 win over Off Campus I and Faculty.

In the American League Off Campus II captured the league lead by defeating Clinton III 67-53 and Grossmann III 84-50. Off Campus II is alone in the undefeated ranks in intramural ball.

CLINTON II defeated Grossmann III 60-31, but failed to do a repeat performance against Cotta, losing that game by a three-point margin. The score of that game, 45-42, knocked Clinton II out of a tie for the league lead.

Grossmann IIB won its first game in four starts this season by drumming North Hall 90-44 after losing to Cotta 77-55 earlier in the week.

Luther over Upper Iowa by a 82-70 margin.

This was the week when the conference leaders took it on the chin as league leading Parsons was handed a defeat at the hands of Luther 71-70. Parsons now has a 10-3 season record.

Simpson and Luther are tied for fourth place with identical records of 8-5. BV is in 6th with a 7-6 record, Wartburg stands in 7th (6-7) with Dubuque, (4-8), Iowa Wesleyan (2-11) and William Penn (1-11) rounding out the league standings.

LAST SATURDAY night the Knights beat 9th place Iowa Wesleyan, 82-64. Dick Ridout was high point man for the Knights as he connected for 7 of his first 11 field goal attempts and finished with 24 points.

He had to settle for second high scorer for the night however, as Bruce Christman dropped 31 points through the hoop. His effort was not nearly enough as he was the only man for Wesleyan in double figures.

The Knights built up a large halftime margin of 21 points as they held a 43-22 score at intermission.

Al Buenning followed Ridout with 16 points, Harold Shudlick and Gary Medlang added 11 apiece, Sathoff countered with 7, Hemenway, 6, Lange, 5 and Brunscheen contributed 2.

AMERICAN LEAGUE play was completed this week by Alpha Beta Gamma's getting a pair of wins over North Hall, 53-46, and Grossmann Basement, 61-43.

League-leading Off Campus II will meet Clinton II next Tuesday in the game that could decide the American League championship if Off Campus II can continue its winning streak.

Columnist Urges Support For Knights At Fayette

By Paul Baumgarten

Good afternoon, fans. I hope you are planning on attending the Upper Iowa Peacock-Wartburg Knight basketball game this evening. Upper Iowa presently stands third in the conference, so the game should be fairly good.

For those of you not planning on attending, KWAR is broadcasting from Fayette. Broadcast will begin at 7:15 p.m.

□ □ □ □

One of the added attractions of the game will be watching one of the best rebounders in Knight basketball history in the person of Al Buenning.

Baumgarten

Named athlete of the month by W-Club, Buenning has pulled the ball from the boards a total of 221 times this year. This is 135 short of the record of 356 set by Bob Adix in the 1954-55 season.

In addition to having a shot at this record, Al has already broken another. This is 24 rebounds during a single game set by John Tuecke against Illinois Normal in 1958. Buenning captured 26 against Loras this year.

In addition to his prowess on the boards he has been splitting the nets at a 15-point per game rate.

In case there is some confusion on the matter, the scheduled game against SCI here is Feb. 26 as it appears on the yellow schedule, not Feb. 19 as it appears on the blue calendar. A game at Cornell is scheduled for Feb. 19.

An interesting sidelight comes to us from the world of football. Rumor has it that Iowa halfback Willie Ray Smith will transfer to Parsons next year.

I shall leave you with visions of halfbacks running across goal lines countless times and another football championship going south for the winter.

IN FIELD OBSERVATION

Social Work Majors Gain Experience

By Diane Moericke
“Field observation provides an opportunity to observe in practice the philosophy and methods of social work.”

These were the words of Mrs. Lola Reppert as she described the value of the field observation which students in social work are now doing.

Field observation is a requirement of the social work major. It gives him an opportunity to talk with the directors and supervisors of the social agencies that serve the community.

Those doing observation work may interview clients, and in some cases work directly with clients at the agencies. This work is always done under the supervision of people who hold master's degrees in social work.

In addition to doing field observation, the workers attend staff meetings of the agency and get an idea of the team approach in social work, involving the social worker, the psychologist and the psychiatrist.

Those doing field observation with the Family Service Society in Waterloo last semester were Muriel Stuepfert, LaMoille, Ill., and Arlen Koelling, Waverly.

Phil Borleske, Mequon, Wis., and Lyn Lienhard, Sheboygan, Wis., worked at the Iowa Lutheran Welfare Society.

Duane Maule, Waverly, worked at the Black Hawk County Mental Health Center in Waterloo, and Dale Thompson, Janesville, Wis., was at Exceptional Persons, Incorporated, Waterloo.

Convo To Accent Religion

In keeping with the convocation theme for the month of February, “Isolation/Involvement,” the two speakers for next week will elaborate on this theme in the field of religion.

On Tuesday Dr. Horace Hummel, Associate Professor of Old Testament at Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, will be the guest speaker.

DR. HUMMEL attended Concordia Seminary, Johns Hopkins University, the University of Heidelberg and participated in an archaeological expedition to Shechem. He has also served parishes in Maryland.

His topic will be “Old Testament and Lutheran Liturgy.” Dr. Hummel would like to consult with those students, particularly upperclassmen, who are interested in going to a seminary, according to Chaplain Herman Diers.

He will be available in Fuchs Lounge on Tuesday from 1:30-3 p.m. At 3 he will be in Greek 308 in Room 202 of Luther Hall.

FATHER MICHAEL J. Marx, Assistant Professor of Theology on the faculty of St. John's Seminary and College at Collegeville, Minn., will be the guest speaker on Thursday.

Father Marx attended the preparatory school and the University at Collegeville and also Benedictine College of St. Anselm's in Rome. His topic is “The Second Vatican Council.”

Four To Travel To College Bowl

Tuesday four Wartburg students will travel to Simpson College, Indianola, to face four of their students in a “college bowl” contest.

Students going from here are seniors Judy Seffer, Darrell Jobman and Victor Lachia and junior Paul Wilken.

STUDENTS HAVE been working under John Ness, Speech Department.

The general college bowl format will be used. Questions will include current events, history, philosophy, natural and social sciences, music and fine arts.

Simpson has been doing this same thing on an intramural basis for the past two years. Wartburg will be facing their best team.

THEIR STUDENTS will write the questions, according to senior Fred Dierks.

“We were asked to write questions also, but due to the shortage of time, we were unable to do it,” said Dierks.

Plans for them to come here on a return meet similar to theirs is being planned for some time in late April or early May.

Prayer Day Agenda Set

The Universal Day of Prayer for students will be held on campus tomorrow in Danforth Chapel. The event is under the auspices of the Lutheran Student Association.

Services will be held at 8:30 a.m., 1 p.m., 3 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Speakers are Dave Garrels, Eldon Dewerth, Jim Johnston and Dan Diekhoff, all seniors.

Frosh Elect

New freshman class president is Mike Peich from Elkhart, Ind., as announced by elections committee chairman Jim Van Driel.

Also elected the past week were new freshman senators Linda Stull, New Hampton; Kathy Piotter, Fond du Lac, Wis.; and Dick Tietjen, Uniondale, N. Y.

Working in Waverly at the Lutheran Children's Home were Donald Schoeppler, Cedar Falls; Robert Lohman, Waterloo; Barry Greene, Waverly; and Ed Reinking, Phillipsburg, Kan.

“Most of the graduates in social work go on to do graduate study and obtain their master's and eventually their doctor's degrees,” said Mrs. Reppert. “The majority go into social casework, although some go into group work, such as Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. programs, settlement houses or community centers.”

Those who will be doing field observation this semester, according to Mrs. Reppert, are Dick Buchsteiner, Reedsburg, Wis.; Charles Knorr, LeMars; and Barry Evans, Waverly.

Judging by the 100 per cent record of placements for graduates with a social work major, one may conclude that the training received by Wartburg students is proving beneficial both to them and to their clients.
